Day 3 Darjeeling TO Chamong Tea Estate

After morning breakfast proceed to Chamong Chiyabari Tea Estate The original inhabitants of the Darjeeling region were called the Lepcha, who converted to Buddhism many centuries ago. Lepcha Buddhist monks have for centuries found this area a spiritual haven, conducive to prayer, meditation and heavenly contemplation. In the summer months, little whistling birds the Lepchas called "Chamoo" gather here, monk-like in their quest for tranquility and harmony.

It is said that there was a pond in the Chamong tea estate. The clear, sweet waters of this pond provided drinking water to the estate's residents. Sometimes, leaves and twigs fell into the water, making it dirty. The Chamoo birds would help clean the pond by taking away the leaves and twigs for their nests and the estate took its name from these birds. Stay at Luxury Resort & rest of the day at leisure. Enjoy the beauty of Tea Garden in the lap of Hills. Overnight stay.
